Preparing for the Inevitable:
A Succession Readiness Checklist

When the following conditions are in place, an agency can expect a relatively smooth transition to new leadership whenever it might occur. An agency might determine which elements below are lacking in its current operations and then create a “succession plan” or “capacity building plan” that prescribes activities and timelines for filling the gaps. The agency is then ready for leadership transitions, foreseen or unforeseen.

- A strategic plan is in place with goals and objectives for the near term (up to three years), including objectives for leadership talent development.

- The board evaluates the executive director annually on general performance and achievement of strategic goals.

- The board, based on its annual self-evaluation, is satisfactorily performing its major governance jobs—financial oversight, executive support and oversight, policy development and strategic planning.

- The executive’s direct reports, based on annual evaluations, are judged as solidly skilled for their positions.

- The top management cohort, as a high performing team:
  - Has a solid team culture in place in which members support one another and can reach decisions as a group efficiently and harmoniously;
  - Shares leadership of the organization with the executive in having significant input to all major agency decisions;
  - Can lead the organization in the absence of the executive; and
  - Has authority to make and carry out decisions within their respective areas of responsibility.

- Another staff person or board member shares important external relationships (major donors, funders, community leaders) maintained by the executive.

- A financial reserve is in place with a minimum of three months’ operating capital.

- Financial systems meet industry standards. Financial reports are up to date and provide the data needed by the board and senior managers responsible for the agency’s financial strength and viability.

- Operational manuals exist for key administrative systems and are easily accessible and up to date.

- Top program staff have documented their key activities in writing and have identified another staff person who can carry their duties in an emergency.

Am I still the leader this agency needs?
{ questions for self-reflection }

1 - My On-Going Effectiveness

In what ways will this agency be changing over the next five years? What skills will it take to lead those changes? Do I have them?

Are there new things I suspect this agency should be doing for its constituents that I just don’t have the energy or interest in taking on?

What level of excitement do I feel most mornings on my way to the office?

What new skills or better ways of doing my job have I developed over the past couple of years? Am I eager to learn and improve my skills?

Do I continue to be effective in building the leadership and management skills of my direct reports? What new duties or responsibilities have they taken on in the past two years?

2 - Personal Barriers to Leaving: If it became clear to me that I should consider leaving my job, what personal barriers would I encounter?

Can I conceive of a career move that would potentially excite and re-energize me? Or do I assume I’ll be bored and without meaning in my life?

Do I fear I could not get another job because of my age? Do I have the skills for a different kind of job?

Am I financially constrained? Do I not yet have enough set aside to retire or to work fewer hours and at a lower salary?

Are the professional identity and status I have in this job so critically important to me that I don’t want to give them up?

Am I concerned about leaving some things undone in the agency?

Do I believe there is no one out there who can do this job as well as I can or could do it even adequately? Would the agency go into decline without my leadership?

3 - Organizational Barriers to Leaving

Would staff and board resist my decision to leave? Might they even feel angry or abandoned?

Would I be leaving the agency in less than good shape?

Are some key managers under-skilled and dependent on my close guidance?

Is the management team unable to run the agency for a significant period of time without me?

Is the board up to managing a leadership transition?

Are there funders and major donors whose support I assume is dependent on my presence?

Are there key relationships held by me alone?

Capturing the Power of Leadership Change: Using Executive Transition Management to Strengthen Organizational Capacity
This first “overview” volume of the Executive Transitions monograph series describes executive transition management and the support systems needed to help organizations survive and thrive before, during, and after a leadership transition.

Interim Executive Directors: The Power in the Middle
This paper explores the benefits and basics of using an interim ED in a leadership transition. It covers the issues that nonprofits should consider when weighing the use of an interim ED and provides a series of case studies that point to the advantages this specially trained leader can deliver in a difficult transition.

Founder Transitions: Creating Good Endings and New Beginnings
This guide examines the unique challenges presented by transitions involving founders or long-term executives. It provides clear advice for executives and their boards in confronting the complex issues these transitions present.

Up Next: Generation Change and the Leadership of Nonprofit Organizations
This monograph is based on two qualitative studies conducted by the Building Movement Project of the differences and similarities of how Baby Boom and Generation X leaders view leadership, transitions, and their work. It delivers a series of recommendations on how a variety of stakeholders can improve the handoff from this generation of leaders to the next.
